$10,000 Ceiling Scrapped

OTTAWA (CP) -The government has revised its proposed overhaul of the family allowance system by announcing plans to pump an additional $150 million into the project and to scrap the proposed $10,000

Health Minister John Munro announced in the Commons that the government's original proposals, issued through a white paper last December, have been overhauled follow-ing lengthy negotiations with the provinces and after receiving submissions other interested groups submissions from

As a result, the new proposed family income security plan will cost about $800 million a year, instead of the earlier proposed $650

the Manitoba government agrees to recommend the charter to the legislative assembly "in the event that this becomes a practical exercise."

MORE TALKS NEEDED

It will not be practical unless talks with Quebec can be resumed. Prime Minister Trudeau and the pramiers agreed at Victoria that the charter must be accepted by all governments or he dropped as the means to constitutional reform. Several premiers said at the time that if it was rejected, constitu-

Mr. Schreyer said that if the charter is renegotiated, Manitona will want renewed consideration of sections deal-ing with the Supreme Court and political rights.

Manitoba wants the section on political rights to include the right to representation by population and wants the Supreme Court of Canada established as the court of original jurisdiction in interprovincial disputes.

Onterio, British Columbia, Alberta Newtoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick governments already have given the charter their ap-proval, although none has yet submitted it to its legislature. The federal government also has amounced its acceptance of the charter.

NEW YORK (UPI)-Peace activist Leslie Bacon pleaded innocent Monday to federal charges that she conspired to make firearms and incendiary bombs in connection with the attempted bombing of a Manhattan bank.

The 19-year-old Californian, first arrested as a material witness in the bombing of the Capitol in Washington, pleaded innocent to all eight counts of the indictment

U.S. District Judge Dudley B. Bonsal continued her in $10,000 ball and granted her request to travel to New Jersey to consult a lawyer. He referred the case to Judge Sylvester J. Ryan for trial but set no date.

"This is a nonsensical charge," Miss Bacon, a long-haired blonde girl who wore a red robe and blue jeans, told news-men outside the courthouse in Folcy Square.

"The government was trying to save face because they blew the other one," she said, referring to the investigation of the Capitol bombing by a grand jury in Seattle. She was the principal witness in Seattle.

Six persons already have been convicted on state charges in the bank bombing case. The federal indictment said that Miss Bacon, who has not been charged by the state, took part in the planning but was not with the group that allegedly set out to bomb the bank last December.

The alleged bombers were arrested at the First National City Bank branch at Madison Avenue and 81st Street by police alerted by an undercover policeman.

However, initial reaction from police officials was favorable to the legislation introduced in the Commons earlier in the day by Justice Minister John Turner.

Under the proposed bill, police would be affowed to use electronic eavesdropping only after obtaining the authorization of a superior court judge.

The judge would have to be satisfied other investigation methods have failed, were likely to fail, or that directly made other methods impractical.

His authorization would be granted only for indictable offences and would last for 30 days. It could then be renewed.

No Provincial Fences

sion of the Supreme Court of Canada has ruled that interference with inter-provincial trade by provincial governments through establishment of restrictive marketing boards is beyond their legislative jurisdiction. This final word should terminate a recent trend toward such boards which, particularly with respect to poultry and eggs, threatened to impose controls on trade across provincial borders.

Such restrictions would balkanize Canada, making it impossible for producers in one province to sell their goods in another province due to the latter's arbitrary marketing regulations. Such a situation would obviously be impossible if this country is to remain a nation and not become merely a collection of competitive neighbor-states.

The Manitoba case was deliberately designed to obtain a Supreme Court ruling. The real objective is the government eggmarketing board in Quebec which operates in a manner to give Quebec producers an advantage in that province's trade. A previously large traffic in Manitoba eggs was put on severe quota, and Manitoba of dollars as a result. The judg- criteria governing the sale of goods.

THE LONG-AWAITED DECI- ment which Manitoba sought that its legislation to establish a board which would restrict or limit the free flow of goods between provinces was beyond its jurisdiction - will now undoubtedly be applied to Quebec.

Justice Minister Turner says that he will examine the decision and its possible application to Quebec. It is difficult to see how the federal department can fail to take action, even though under the present circumstances this could have strong political repercussions.

The fact remains clear, that Canadian producers should not be barred on commercial grounds from selling their goods in any part of Canada, nor hampered in any legitimate trading endeavor that involves more than one province. Quebec has challenged this principle of unity, not only with its eggmarketing board, but in the much wider field of constitutional and financial matters.

An Alarmed Look at the New NDP Muscle

IN the popular jargon of the national capital, Saskatchewan voters have provided a new "input" to the great game of political speculation which has been raging this mer. The results, under careful scrutiny, are plainly upsetting both for the t a d eval government and for official oppo-aition. As the campaign drew to its conclusion, a certain consensus had develoned here. Expects-tions of the various parties were not widely different. The NDP were cautiously hopeful of a victory but thought the margin would be very narrow. Among Liberals and Conservatives the feeling was that the Thatcher government would survive but that the majority would be small and might be gained on a minority vote. Instead, the outcome is much like that of the Brant federal by-election. occasion was not the loss, which was half expected, but the size of the swing to an attractive NDP candidate.

The government, in terms of seats, s little to lose in Saskatchewan. In 1968, the Liberals carried two constitu encies in the province. Both were won in very close contests. With Assinibola now vacant (and the government apparently in no hurry about the byelection there) Otto Lang is the sole Liberal member from Saskatchewan. To the extent that the provincial vote is significant, it can only be disturbing to the Liberals since they did hadly in Mr. Lang's Saskatoon-

More at Stake

It cannot safely he assumed however that nothing more is at stake than the limited government holdings in a single western province. How much depends on the view taken of the Saskatchewan vote and its possible effects elsewhere in the

Among some Liberals there is a disposition to shrug off Saskatchewan on the general ground that provincial returns are of doubtful relevance for the tortunes of federal parties and, on the more specific calculation, that Mr. Thatcher, never popular in Ottawa, was not closely associated with the national

Voters in the past year or so have shown a strong tendency to hold provincial administrations responsible for their grievances and dissatisfactions. Conservative governments have been turned out in Manitoba and Nova Scotia; a Liberal government was ejected in New Brunswick, the Union Nationale routed in Quebec. Only in British Columbia and Prince Edward Island

Trudeau Popularity

None of this, according to more optimistic Liberals, has affected the personal popularity of Pierre Elliott Trudeau, most recently demonstrated in his swing through southern Ontario, including Toronto in theory a disaffected area. The assumption is that the prime minister can translate his continuing crowd appeal into votes. This may or may not be true. Politica historians have noted that Sir Wilfrid Laurier drew his biggest crowds when he was losing elections. There is also the fact that Mr. Trudeau, as an exciting newcomer without a record, aroused great anticipations in 1968. In the next which may complicate the problem failed conspicously to defend at all points the agricultural policies of the Trudeau solidarity with the federal Liberals is NDP is developing politically dangerous protest vote in these ridings is drawn off much less certain. Mr. Blakeney worked momentum elsewhere in the country, as by the NDP. This seems to be the trend hard, and apparently with some success to identify Liberals in Regina with Liberals in Ottawa and to saddle the Thatcherites with responsibility for policies of the federal government. It is arguable, if one sets aside the rose-colored glasses, that the association of provincial and federal parties was simply too much of a burden for the premier to bear.

In any case, it is rather difficult to believe that the mood of Saskatchewan voters is attributable solely to resentment over particular points of agricul-tural policy or to lack of understanding of them. There is evidence of a much more general dissatisfaction resulting from a feeling that the leading figures in Prairie problems and the Prairie outlook and not much apparent desire to comprehend them.

For the Conservatives there is very little comfort in the Saskatchewan returns. The bad news for them is not the shut-out, in any case they have managed well for years without a provincial base, which was expected. It is the accumulating evidence that the Liberal popularity declines.

The blitz by competent out-of-province organizers that worked in Manitoba worked even better in Saskatchewan. Mr. Blakeney's victory has greatly encouraged Stephen Lewis, whose party now has high hopes of impressive gains

Stanfield and Ontario

Ontario is bound to be central in Robert Stanfield's electoral calculation. In 1868 the party won only 17 seats in the ce, almost all of them rural. Never had Conservatives fared so badly; not even in years of disaster under Bennett, Manion, Bracken and Drew. To effect a comeback, they must break into the urban and suburban areas from which they have been virtually excluded.

In normal circumstances there would be opportunity in adversity, since many of the lost seats were once good Conservative fighting-ground. John Diefenbaker, for example, almost doubled the party holdings in Ontario when fashioning his victory of 1857. But the Conservatives may be frustrated if the now and it is likely to be strengthened by the new victories of the socialist party.

Saskatchewan may be important in another respect. An influential wing of the federal Liberal party has long favored policies radical (and nationalist) enough to contain the NDP. The Conservatives in some degree have helped to maintain a balance. While their over-all economic policies have been confused. Mr. Stanfield's campaign against the white paper achieved considerable success. With Mr. Thatcher defeated (despite John Diefenbaker's gesture on his behalf) the keep-left Liberals will doubtless argue that the Conservatives can be safely ignored. The pressing threat, in their view, is from the NDP. According to this thinking, the answer to socialism is more social welfare, which was politically effective in the past and may be again.

How much such counsel will affect government policy remains to be seen. It quite certain, however, that there is growing apprehension in the Liberal caucus and that this is due less to the persistent attacks of Mr. Stanfield than

AFTER A YEAR OF WIDE spread financial losses, airlines on this continent and elsewhere are engaged in tailoring fares to meet the market - hoping to make up in volume more than is dropped on the reduced individual ticket. This procedure is far more practicable than the previous inflexible pricing arrangements under regulations of the International Air Transport Association — which at one time blocked proposed fare cuts by Air Canada.

Reductions have been made in youth fares, and BOAC is prepared to cut prices still further through an approach to IATA next week. The company's proposal, supported by co-operative arrangements with Air Airlines are fully aware of the challenge presented by lower-priced can set reduced fares because they customarily operate on a basis of full loads. As the charters syphon off potential scheduled airline business, regular flights leave too frequently with empty seats.

If, by bringing regular fares closer to charter rates, the scheduled lines can be assured of larger payloads, one of the economic problems they face would be substantially reduced. As far as the average traveller is concerned, the lower the fare the better.

pseudonyms as employment policy, cost of living, urban problems and geriatrics.)

The problem is that the "bread-and-butter" problems can only be solved by a reasonably efficient system of government, and an outdated or sloppy constitutional structure guarantees inefficiency.

Canada, this disconnected

cept, cannot survive if each region remains obsessed with its own "bread-and-butter" issues alone.

There are some regions of Canada, which, because of lucky geology (Alberta) or geography (Ontario) are economically rich. There are nomically rich. There are others who suffer (Quebec) from the inherited diseases of our history. Geology, geography and history have worked against the Maritimes. But the economic stature of the regions has had nothing to do with the quality of the contribution that its people have made to the Canadian concept.

When the gnarled fingers of the Tax Collector reach into your pocket, it may not seem to matter to whose arm the fingers are attached. The army may be municipal, provin c i a l or federal — so what! The fingers grab and you pay. But it does matter, because the federal govern-ment tries to spread the economic burden, and make it attractive for each region to want to be part of Canada.

And this is where the Constitution comes in If there is a practicable and amicable relationship between the regions and the races of Canada, then we should be able to describe it. In fact, we must describe it in hard terms. The Constitution is a declaration of goodwill—one Canadian to another.

The Constitutional Conferences, which occur with the dull repetition of Oscar Night, are an attempt to codify these relationships without which our country cannot exist.

So, it turns out, when you really look at it, that the seemingly irrelevant debate on the Constitution is of first importance. The Constitution is a "bread-and-butter" issue

Get Your Hot Secrets Here In Washington classified documents are piting up in the corridors of the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House, and the men who are supposed to leak them to the press are in desagn.

At the Pentagon just a few days ago. for example, reporters and lamous syndicated columnists were going out of their way to avoid the Office of Overt Graduated Document Leakage. Graduated Document Leasage. The man in charge there, whose code name is Bill, was standing in the hall buttonholing complete strangers.

"Listen to this," Bill said, flipping open the classified document which he was trying to leak. "This is the latest secret report about the Russian missile buildup. I'm willing to leak it right away. It's all yours, my free. "Not a chance."

"If this document isn't published by tomorrow afternoon," Bill argued, "we won't possibly be able to panic the Congress in time to get it to vote us another $5 billion for an American missile buildup, and then there will be a "That would be bad."

"It certainly would," Bill said. "You wouldn't want to be responsible for damaging the national security by not taking a little leaked document, would

His lower lip was trembling. It was hard to give him the truth straight out, perhaps because this was the Pentagon.

"I'm not a reporter, Bill."

"Why don't you declassify them and issue them as press releases?"
"Don't talk nonsense at a time like this," Bill blubbered. "No editor in his right mind would believe any of this stuff if we didn't put 'classified' labels on it."

Suddenly, down a mile-long corridor Bill recognized a famous syndicated columnist, scooped up an armful of documents and ran full speed to intercept him.

"Moc, baby," he laughed. "Look what I've got for you. A whole truck-load of captured documents from North Victnam proving once again that there

THE SWEET LIFE AT HONEYMOON BAY

Where the Company Catches Dogs and Unplugs Sinks

HONEYMOON BAY -- If people in Honeymoon Bay want a dog caught or a sink unplugged they call Alec

Walker, personnel manager of Western Forest Industries, Honeymoon Bay, who is also the townsite administrator, fills roles such as mayor, town councillor, public works department, and all other department and all other duties involved with running a small community.

"There aren't any others on Vancouver Island," he said, "There are still logging-eamps such as Cayouse, Nitinat and Franklin River,"

Honeymoon Bay is a tidy little townsite consisting of $50 people living in 76 homes, provided by the mill, situated on eight streets. It lies on arose after police searched his residence on June 7.

William Reid Pattison, 18, was fined $200. Police searched his residence May 4.

There are several other homes, which house about 150 more people. In the Honeymoon Bay area. Most of these are run down and one can notice a distinct change when entering the mill's town property, which is cared for by a full-time gardener and a corponier.

The annual budget of about $50,000 is spent mainly on the upkeep of the townsite.

"The townsite is subsidized-"The townsite is subsidized by the company. It doesn't pay for itself," Walker said.

The average rent for the homes, which range from two to four bedrooms, is $45 a month, this is paid for by payroll deductions because only employees from the mill or the company's Gordon River logging operation are eligible to live in these live in these

"We have very few rules for the people in the townsite which is rented for a small which is rented for a small sum of money, residents are provided with paved streets and alleys, a modern community hall, bowling greens, a playground, a ball field, a double tennis court, a wild flower park, a Scout hall and Ashburnham beach. for the people in the townsite and it is amazing how well it works." Walker said. "All they really have to do is see that their yards are kept up to standard. They get good service in return. Walker, who has worked at WFI for 20 years and been townsite administrator for the past two, said he finds his position fulfilling.

"I find I have to be really fair and diplomatic because I am under the gun no matter what happens," he said. Along with their home,

"Ten years ago we had a tough time to keep people here," Walker said. "Now that it is only a 35-minute drive to Duncan with the new highway, and we have recreational facilities like arene. Cowichan Lake sports arena.

ideal place to live."

WFI has 300 men employed in the mill and another 100 in its logging operation. Annual payroll is more than $3,000,-000.

Although Honeymoon Bay is no longer considered an isolated area and the company would have no problem selling its houses, Walker said the company still considers it a good idea to have full control of the townsite.

"First of all it is good for morale. These people have a common bond. They are mill people living in a mill town." Walker said. "There is good community spirit. We have several ball teams, hockey teams, and community functions that are always well tions, that are always well supported."

said WFI is able to keep the community ship-shape. This is pretty important."
Honeymoon Bay was first started in 1966 when the Koerner interests of Vancouver (Alaska Pine Co. Ltd) bought out Lake Logging and Lumber Ltd. and began operations under the name of Western Forest Industries.
At that time the company had 500 men employed in the mill.

"We were running a double shift then," Walker said. "we are not running at the full production level now because we are trying to maintain a timber last longer."

During the first years employees were housed in 12 bunkhouses. The last one was closed down in 1965.

"We started building homes the started building homes."

"We started building homes in Honsymoon almost right away to provide a basis for a good operation." Walker said. "Men were able to bring their families into this isolated area and then they made steadler employees."

WFT is now owned 60 per cent by Rayomier of Canada, B.C. Ltd., which is a subsiduary of International Telephone and Telegraph, and the remainder by C. H. V. Carpentier of Australia.

All 16 candidates propos an is caninates proposed by the nominating committee of the Victoria Symphony Society were elected directors at the annual meeting Mon-day night despite an on-slaught of nominations from

About 130 people, twice the traditional turnout, jammed Dunlop House, stirred by recent news reports of administrative and financial difficulties.

-At stake in the annual elections were 15 seats on the 30-member board for two-year terms and four seats for one-year terms. Voting results were announced just before midnight, four hours after the meeting was scheduled to start.

Ten nominations from the floor were added to the 12 from the nominating commit-tee for the seats with two-year terms. But the dozen the committee proposed were elected and only the three seats the committee did not suggest candidates for were filled from floor nominations.

Elected or re-elected for two-year terms are: Barney Simmons, Thomas McMaster, simmons, Thomas McMaster, president Stuart Soward, Michael Manning, Ivor Burrows, John Graeme, David Batrd, Jack Dunsmore, Bruce Brown, Jack Murray, Howard Denike, all from the nominating committee's slate, and Paul Horn, Mrs. Daisy Thurwall and Robert Lapp.

Nominated but unsuccessful

Nominated but unsuccessful were Mrs. Doreen Burrows, Madge Ronahan, John Meredith, Mrs. Betty Mayne, Maurice Johnson, Allan Purdy and Bruce Davenport.

NOMINATED

The nominating committee had proposed Malcolm Anderson, Douglas Turnbull, Donald Taylor and Dale Kilshaw for one-year terms and they were elected. Mrs. Enid Webster, nominated from the floor, was the fifth candidate.

Voting is open only to season ticket holders. Ninety-two ballots were cast with seven of them spoiled.

Start of the meeting was delayed half an hour so a public address system could be added, enabling people who overflowed into a hallway and adjacent room to hear proceedings.

Earlier this year general manager F. G. McHale resigned following what was frequently rumored but never openly dealt with as recurring clashes with music director Laszlo Gati. PROBLEMS

Soward said that as long as the board feels it can solve auch problems it sees no need to bring them to the members and the board had always felt

But the position of the general manager had been made untenable by a number of factors, he said, although Soward's personal view was McHale had been doing a good job.

It was regrettable but "sometimes this happens, particularly when people get into the act who have no business being there."

Soward said there had been several newspaper reports in recent months which were not correct and one in Sunday's Colonist was singled out by him and others for attack.

FIVE YEARS

It said the society's administrative costs have risen 480 istrative costs have risen sow per cent over the past five years. A statement offered to the meeting by the president showed the increase for administration since the 1967-68 season was 52 per cent.

The statement said the Victoria symphony's administrative costs were 11.1 per cent of the total budget, compared to 11 to 12 per cent of the Calgary Philharmonic, 11.5 per cent for the Vancouver symphony and 13.6 per cent for the Edmonton symphony.

Gatti drew a standing evention following his report to the memberheip. He said the symphony had made important progress and commended the hard work of orchestra.

An exciting and varied season has been planned and it's hoped the season can be extended and more professional musicians attracted to the symphony.

"Our hopes depend on sup-port of the community and board."

Assets of the symphony foundation stand at almost $55,000 at the end of May, the meeting was told. And the symphony can look forward to future bequests now totalling about $500,000.

Financial statements show ticket sales, special events, out-of-town concerts, recitais and other items produced revenue of $118,508 for the season ending May 31.

Perhaps, occasionally, youdrinkanddrive.

Do you know what it could cost you?

Let's be optimistic and assume you don't have an accident. Or hit any parked cars. Or speed. Let's assume you stay at the party longer than you planned and had three or four drinks—enough to drink to make you legally impaired. All in good fellowship. All without malice. And for some reason, you are stopped.

Here's what to expect:

Breathalyser Police officers are extremely adept at spotting impaired drivers. There are dozens of telltale clues, if you are suspected, you will be asked to submit to a breathalyser test. This is mandatory and refusal can result in serious charges, if you have consumed enough to give you a .08 reading, you can be charged with impaired driving,

2 Jail Very likely, you will be jailed overnight. For the average citizen, this is a terrifying experience. Impaired driving comes under the Criminal Code, and that is just how you will be treated. You will be fingerprinted, asked for alias', relieved of your belt, tie, shoelaces, and personal possessions, allowed one phone call, and be placed in a cell. In the morning, your breakfast will be slid under the bars of the cell door. You will find the night harrowing and have plenty of time to reflect. In the meantime, your wife and children will be worried, distressed and slightly mortified.

The arresting officer's report, corroborated by your breathalyser reading, will normally result in a conviction. The number of convictions is increasing every year. Over 12,000 are expected in British, Columbia alone during 1971. If the Judge lets you off with a $250 fine for the first offence, you can consider yourself lucky. For having accumulated ten penalty points, the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles will assess you a charge of $25.00 which will be used to pay for public information messages like the one you are now reading. Add to this the $50 to several hundred dollars you'll spend on a lawyer and you've dropped quite a bundle.

4 Suspension Even if you have never had so much as a parking ticket in thirty years of driving, you can expect to have your right to drive reviewed by the Superintendent of Motor-Vehicles. On his judgement and your driving record, your suspension may be one month, three months, six months, or even indefinitely.

Insurance The costs don't stop at fines and lawyers. When your insurance company hears all about it, your insurance premium will be surcharged. That means your insurance rates will soar until you can prove yourself a good risk again. That could take years if you have no more problems. And here's another point to ponder. Had you injured or killed someone while impaired, your liability coverage was void anyhow. Your insurance company will pay the claim, but they may demand repayment from you.

Publicity Criminal courts swarmwith court reporters. In some smaller communities, your conviction will make front page news. They will list the details of your arrest, trial, conviction, breathalyser reading, fine and suspension. They will print all this, along with your name and address, for all your friends and business associates to read, it is the coup de grace you can expect about one week after the trial.

These are the hard cold facts of how a jovial evening can turn into a nightmare. The police have seen too many dead children to have much patience. The courts have heard too many tragedies to give you much mercy. And that's the way it is.

Think about it next time you decide to save a few dollars on a cab.

B.C. Bank Copied?

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba government Monday made public a study that states it would be feasible to set up a new chartered bank in the province along the lines of the Bank of British Columbia. Industry Minister Leonard Evans said the NDP government would give organizational help and perhaps some loan capital to persons who want to set up such a bank.

Life Saver Honored

CALGARY (CP) - Pelice CALGARY (CP) — Police credited construction executive Walter J. Carlson with saving the life of Steven Hodgson, 14. Sunday after the hay suffered a severe cut to the threat in a traffic accident. Police said Carlson slopped a heavy flow of blood until ambulance men arrived at the scene and that the bay would have died if Carlson hadn't stopped at the scene.

Bomb Factory Uncovered

BELFAST (AP) — One of the biggest arms caches ever found by British troops in Northern Ireland was uncovered early today in a raid on a Belfast

"From the items uncovered we can only surmise that the building was used as a bomb-making factory," a senior army officer said.

the warehouse.

The troops found 2,000 feet of fuse wire, 200 gallons of acid, 14 booby traps, two walkie-talkie radios, 130 detonators, three grenades, four gelignite bombs, one pistol, a rifle, more than 300 rounds of ammunition, machine cun parts and an assortment of fuses, flares and alms switches.

Chevy Nova gives you the least trouble and the most value.

Bus 3, 4, 16, 17 HILLSIDE

All it takes is experience.

Experience. That's Chevy Nova, with years of Chevrolet experience built right in. And that means Nova has fewer mechanical problems than other cars. We're not the only ones who say that, either; 300 mechanics ones who say that, either; 300 mechanics and service station managers said so, too, in the survey conducted by Motor Service and Service Station Management magazines. They said Nova had the least mechanical problems of all the cars they worked on. Experts like that know what they're talking about.

Not-too-big Nova moves right through downtown traffic and all those parking, problems without a hitch. Out on the highway, not-too-small Nova holds the road like a much bigger car. That's because of its wide tread and hefty weight.

Basically, there's more to a Nova them a lot of other cars, big or small. Like your choice of either a Six or V8 engine—both standard. There's room for six adults in the sedan (five in the coupe). Plus their luggage. And Nova rides smoothly because the springs are matched to weight and equipment. And it turns in a tight little circle, which means we get around a let of things that a bigger car can't.

We've been talking about experience but we haven't told you how much. Behind each not-too-big, not-too-emall Nova there are 60 years of General Motors car building experience. 60 years. That's a long time. That's a lot of experience. Nova's really got it!

Get it! At your Cherry dealer's. Get some experience with your next car. And some value. Get it all in Nova—the not-ton-big, not-ton-small Chevrolet.

Chevrolet. Putting you first keeps us first.

Some of the equipment illustrated is optional at extra cost.

New here is your opportunity to prove it!

Wants Cunard

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, TUESDAY, JUNE 28, 1871-13

Cunard Steam-Ship Co. Ltd. LONDON (Reuter) revealed today that talks are under way with an unnamed bidder to take over the British-based company,

Sir Basil Smallpiece, the company's chairman, said the discussions are in a preliminary stage and added: "No indications of their likely outcome can be given."

His statement followed per-sistent speculation which has been pushing Cunard shares' up on the London stock exchange.

Smallpiece said he was making his statement-because of the rising shares prices. He declined to name the bidder,

In February the company revealed that its annual accounts for 1870 showed a loss after taxation of $4.629, 600 compared with a profit of $7.583,500 the previous year.

But in April, Smallpiece said, the group hoped to become profitable by 1972. He said then that Cunard had set course on a tough plan to restore its fortunes.

The company's share prices today shot up to $3.84, up 58 cents on the day, adding more than $7.2 million to the company's market capitalization.

The most famous ship now being run by Cunard is Ita luxury liner, Queen Elizabeth 2, launched after several expensive delays in 1898.

Cunard sold its other two Queen liners, the original Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mary, to buyers in the Enited States.

SAYS ALL SUFFER
All regions are suffering the government's unemployment policies the former, minister said. They were suffering "the consequences of economic mismanagement which can only be described as inhumane and unintelligent."

Liberal E. B. Osler (Winnipeg South Centre) noted that Mr. He'llyer, as a minister, fought the 1968 general election on the issue of inflation and how to heat it.

"To my knowledge he never opened his mouth in caucus against the methods being used to fight inflation."

Mr. Lewis said that while there were some we it o or a changes in the budget—new and bigger personal exemptions, for example—it would not shift that ax burden to those best able to pay or introduce equity into the system.

Over all, Mr. Lewis said, "all

Edmonton Eagles, leaders in the Prairic Division, will oppose the Royals Saturday at Royal Atheltic Park.

Eagles, who have won six, tied one and lost one match this season, with 20 goals in the "credit" column, defeated Spartana twice last weekend in Vancouver.

Edmonton's big gum, and the player Royals will have to contain, is inside-right Rick Hart, who has accred eight goals this season.

This will be the first of two visits to Victoria by Edmonton in intertocking matches between the two divisions.

And in that time, she had set all sorts of Canadian scords. The program listed only two — an 11.3 in the 100 seres for the native Canadian record, and 23.5 for the 200 seres, a mark she shares with Patti Loverock, and ephanic Berto, two of the youngsters who were to beat her

Yes, she lest the 200, too, finishing seventh in 24.8. But never lost her sense of humor before, or after.

"How are things going," an inquiring reporter asked outes after Irene had run in the 200-metre heats. "Not too I, but I made the finals," she smiled. "But these kids are Later, after she finished seventh, she walked slowly mass the infield. "No, I won't hang them up," she said, I as running better earlier in the year, then I hit a slump."

Much later, the real Irene Piotrowski came to the fore. Guess what?" she laughed, a few minutes after the women's 0-metre relay had been concluded. "I won a gold." Irene 400-metre relay had been concluded. If won a gold. Here had anchored the winning relay team.

It wasn't the first medal she had ever won and it probably won't be her last, In 1966 at Jamaica she won a silver in the 100 (yards) and a bronze in the 220. At Winnipeg in the '67 Pan-Am she won a bronze in 100 metres and in a Commonwealth meet against the U.S. she won alivers in the 100 and 200-metre events besides anchoring a relay team that

In the meantime, she has been ranked 11th in the world s a sprinter, in all time, by the Women's Track and Field ampionships and then the Canadian seniors. If she doesn't back on top by then, perhaps she may call it quits from a competitive angle.

But as they say in the trade. The leaders better not tire.

But now to the future. The youngsters who heat her — Loverock, Berto and Gail Turney are worthy candidates for continuing fame. Loverock was the sharpest with a double victory in the 100 and 200. Her 11.3 was "easily my best

The track is fast, and I've been running well," she said before the second leg of the double — a 23.6 in the 200, and th of a second off the Canadian record, and her

The surprise of the ladies, however, was Miss Turney. The Cowiehan girl ran the 100 in 11.7 and the 200 in 24.6 and will likely grab a spot on the relay team at Cali.

Penny May, of course, was in a class by herself in the hurdles, matching her 13.5 in recent competition at Portland and Toronto with a bone-fide record at Minoru. Some watches even had her clocked in 13.4. Right behind her was Abbotsford's Wendy Taylor in 13.8 which also bettered the previous Canadian record. This gives Canada a great one-two punch in the hurdles.

"This year the Grand is not for export," Lou Barry growled into his pint of ale. Barry is chief coach of Tideway Scullers, a crew made up of London dockers, office workers and businessmen headquartered in a London riverside pub.

The scullers have often promised to be Britain's best crew, but have always failed at Henley when the chips were down. They have frequently had to put up with harbs from rivals that they should spend more time rowing and less time drinking.

Suddenly the scullers are no longer regarded as a loke.

By The Associated Press Pittsburgh Pirates, leaders in the National League's East Division, have surrendered 35 runs in the last five games, an average of seven a game.

But the lively Pittsburgh bats have produced 50 runs over the same span—10 runs a game. The Pirates had their hot bats working again Monday nightall except the hottest one which belongs to Willie Stargell, the major league leader with 25 homers and 79 runs batted in Stargeli was hitless but the other Buos collected 15 hits and ripped St. Louis Cardinals 11-5.

The All-Star roster was completed Sunday when Ken Sugarman finally made the scene, Sugarman, from B.C. Lions, had been nicked by a virus and listed as a possible nearborn o-show. The All-Stars have a 32-man roster working out twice a day at Loyola College, while the Alouettes will out 36 men in uniform for the engagement from their pre-season training camp at nearby Vaudentil.

Still the best choice... chevron gasolines with Chevron gasolines with F-310 are available in the Lower Mainland and Victoria areas in all 3 grades.

Chevron Unleaded with F-310 For those cars designed to operate on lower-octane unleaded gasolines. Chevron Supreme with F-310

For top performance in cars with highcompression engines.

Chevron Gasoline with F-310

For cars requiring quality regular-grade leaded gasolines.

Improved Engine Performance

By selecting the right grade of Chevron gasoline that best suits your car - you can benefit from the qualities of F-310. Here's how it works ...

When deposits build up in your carburetor and PCV (positive crankcase ventilation) valve, the fuel mixture becomes too rich resulting in rough idle, stalling and wasted fuel. Remove these deposits, and good engine performance is restored. Mileage improves because gasoline is no longer being wasted.

F-310 was developed specifically to clean the critical parts of dirty engines - and to keep clean engines clean. And that's how F-310 helps towards better engine performance - and better mileage! These extra performance benefits are now in all three grades of Chevron gasoline all with F-310.

Permanent Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said today Prime Minister Trudeau has rejected his proposal that an additional Commons seat be created for a permanent Com-mons Speaker. There now are 264 seats.

No alternative proposal has come from the government, he said in a statement, Consequently, he will not ask the Progressive Conservative Association in Stormont-Dundas to refrain from entering a can-didate in the next federal gen-eral election, he said.

Stormont-Dundas is represented by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, an independent. Neither Liberals nor Conservatives nominated candidates against him in the 1968 election.

Prof Accused Of Committing Ethics Breach

"Breach of professional ethics" is the main reason for denying tenure to Dr. Tikam Jain, a hearing into the University of Victoria tenure dispute was told Monday.

Dr. Stephen Ryce, chairman of the chemistry department, said Jain misrepresented a said Jain misrepresented a research grant application and withheld from a graduate student evidence the master's degree research the student had been assigned had already been done by another scientist. thesis, and he would have to select another topic. It's not uncommon for this to happen in sciences, Ryce said.

The student several weeks Jain was withholding informa-tion so he wrote himself to the Oakland scientist, who in the Oakland scientist, who in turn replied that he had already sent information about the research to Jain.

Jain continued to deny he had had any correspondence with the scientist, and in one conversation with Ryce, the chairman accused him of lying. The graduate student changed his thesis topic, gained his degree and later was awarded a Weyerhauser Scholarship of $4,000.

Took Credit for New Compound

The matter of the research grant application arose when Jain applied for the grant, taking credit for the discovery of a new compound. Whether he actually discovered the compound was a matter disputed by the graduate student and other faculty members.

ate student and other faculty members.

Ryce refused to sign the application, and so the grant was never approved.

Earlier Monday assistant dean of arts and science Dr. William Gordon told how he delivered, documents on the alleged new compound for outside assessment by a "distinguished chemist" from another B.C. university.

The other chemist concluded Jahn had not discovered a new compound, and a report by Gordon on his evaluation was apparently instrumental in Uvic President

Bruce Partridge's decision to deny Jain tenure.

However, Ryce later said under questioning most of the documents pertfiring to the Jain case had probably been available to a committee of inquiry from the Canadian As sociation of University Teachers which held closed hearings here early this year.

The CAUT report based on the hearings and released April 7 was harshly critical of Uvic president Bruce Partridge's handling of the cases of Jain, Dr. William Goede and John Graff.

The report said Partridge threatened the right of all faculty members when he overturned the decision of a faculty advisory committee to

SINCE NOTHING CAN BE done about it, my wife and I continue to ignore the weather in hopes that it will go away. With this in mind, we set out under Sunday's we set out under summer weeping sky to see if the sticklebacks were moving down the Gorge.

The spiny little sticklebacks, I should explain, hatch by the million in nests

We parked by the school. I hurried her past it, and on to where Craigflower bridge carries Admirals Road across But, thanks to determined efforts by the Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia, the oldest school west of the Great Lakes It was now raining briskly. A couple of fishermen leaned on the bridge rail, trailing flies in the lazy interplay of tidal currents. There was no sign of the sticklebacks, or out, it was high time we had a look at it.

Completed when Vancouver Island was still a colony, the school opened its doors to the children of Craigflower Farm workers in the spring of 1855. Step inside and you are at once plunged into a past which is almost disturbingly tangible. I began to hedge. Maybe we should have picked a brisker tide, Maybe . . . At this point, a busy little prickle showed on the rain-pocked flow. A Children's Crusade of young sticklebacks had cleared the bridge piles

The desks, most of them scarred originals with jack-knife carved initials and seats worn slick by generations of use, stand on the plank-floor in two orderly rows.

Some of the slates are cracked, but a slate pencil applied at a well calculated ingle produced a squeal of the sort that fetched stern glances from teachers long departed.

Mrs. C. J. Clark, the new caretaker with husband Jerry, set the slate back with the others. These two are keenly interested in the school and few weeks go by that they don't resurred hits and pieces of its history, that suw its last students depart in 1912. We climbed the narrow stairs to the living quarters that occupy the upper floor. All in order — spindle bed neatly made up in one mountainty cribs in another—pictures on the walls.

"If you look closely at the slates," Mrs. Clark told us, "you'll notice that some were decorated around the edges. Those belonged to the girls."

Some of the hoys also left their mark, as witness a find the Clarks made while cleaning windows a while ago. In the cloakroom, our guide pointed out one of the little aquares of window glass that came around Cape Horn by sailing ship from England.

It was time to go. We emerged to a present in which the rain had stopped, and followed the Gorge on down to Kinsman Park, lovely these days with its lawns and flower gardens. Clean Camping Fights Pollution DEAR ABBY

TORONTO (CP) — The coblem of pollution is not ally a problem for upon reas and big lakes, it has ureed and it could kill anada's small lakes and mote rivers.

Anyone who is a cottager, a amper or a picnicker can alp kill them or help clean help kill them or help clean them up.

Pollution Probe has a pamphlet of advice on what you can do to avoid polluting and another on sewage disposal methods for cottagers.

The first says the two main sources of pollution in our lakes are human sewage that endangers health, and nutrients such as phosphates that cause rapid algae growth and endanger the health of the water and things that live in it.

What you can do begins with sewage. You can install an effective septic tank system. In the meantime, make sure your present system of disposal does not allow sewage to enfer the lake.

In some rocky areas, where there is not enough topsoil to allow septic tank installation, closed tanks may be necessary.

Whether you use a septic tank or a closed tank, have it pumped out and see that the sludge is disposed of properly.

Get a holding tank for your toat, and don't dump sewage in the lake or coastal waters.

Brian Kelly of Pollution Probe says septic tanks and tile fields don't appear to hold back phosphates from entering the soil and the water, he says more research needs to be done on them.

In the meantime, you might consider buying a water softener for the cottage, and use a non-phosphate deter-gent.

Try to reduce your daily output of garbage. Probe says the average now is four pounds per person every day. Dispose of your garbage properly, making sure it is cleanly buried or incinerated in a safe way.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "Joe") spent six weeks. In the hospital with a coronary and emphysema, but thank God he is going to be all right. His doctor told him he had to lose 45 pounds and give up cigarettes. Joe lost 26 pounds in the hospital and he didn't have one cigarette, which isn't easy for a three-pack-a-day man.

When I was at the hospital to take Joe home, his doctor walked into his room smoking a cigarette! Joe kiddingly asked the doctor for a cigarette, and would you believe, the doctor gave him one! (I could have strangled that doctor!)

Joe has been home for three weeks and he's smoking again. I just know if that doctor hadn't given him a cigarette Joe would have quit for good.

When I told the doctor what when I told the doctor what I thought of him he said, "I didn't think one would hurthim. Besides, I knew how much he wanted one because I can't quit either."

What do you think of that, Abby? If I hadn't witnessed this I never would have believed it. — Disgusted.

DEAR DISGUSTED: So what else is new? That doctor used inexcusably poor judgment, but if all the doctors who are hooked on nicotine were laid end to end, they would reach the Sloane Kettering Institute — which isn't a bad idea.

DEAR SHOCKED: Ohvlously that mother doesn't look upon nudity as "indecent," which is her right. Tell her how you feel about those pictures if you wish. (She may appreciate knowing.) But in answer to your question.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the girl who is engaged to a man who finds it impossible to say, "I love you," or pay his fiancee a compliment. Then he tries to excuse it by saying he just isn't the "demonstrative" type:

Run fast, dear, in the opposite direction. A man who is stingy with his compliments is stingy with his money, himself, and everything else. I married one of those "un demonstrative" types, and one day he got angry with me and he calmy knocked me halfway across the room — with practically the room — with practically no demonstration whatsoever dove:

The first, wading through a Mekong Delts paddyfield knew deep in mud. a submachinegun cradled in his arms, impatience mirrored on his face, not a soldier but a civilian eager to see the war woo.

"These guys just don't know how to flight," he gasps to a reporter in annoyance. He turns to an American infantryman crouching down in the tall green rice behind him seeking cover from a persistent Viet Cong aniper. "Dann it, this is no way to win a war," he shouts. "Move up."

win a war," he shouts. "Move up."

The second glimpse, this time with a thick sheaf of papers in his hands on a government jet high over the Pacitic, a frustrated war analyse whose arguments are unheeded. He is presching over his friend and superior. Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara, reading out loud a top secret study of the war made by senior American officials in Saigon late in 1966 but hidden from McNamara's view in Washington. The report casts doubt on the whole war effort, and he had flown to Honolulu to join McNamara and keep him awake with statistics and findings on a long, overnight journey to Victnam.

The third glimpsa, Monday morning outside the Boston Federal Court building, and he is arm in arm with his wife, a briefcase in his hand, his hair grown bushy, now a research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The 60-ye a r old former marine turned doviah after he left Victnam in 1968 and his rapid transformation into an anti-war critic dismayed his friends in the battle zone.

For more than a year before he went to Victnam he had worked on the top-level staff of the assistant secretary for international security affairs, working on decision-making in Victnam.

He went to Victnam as a confirmed war advocate, interested only in having the conflict fought better.

Ellaberg first began despatring of the war when he and other senior civilian officials were ignored in their attempts to receast war policy.

"Westmoreland becought in American troops under felie pretences," he argued in a Saigon coffee shop late in 1867.

Ellaberg said civilians were

REACH FOR THE TOP, 7:30 p.m. Channel 2. Oak Bay Senior Secondary is still in there, tonight against Pentiction Senior Secondary.

MOD SQUAD. 7:30 p.m., Channel 4. (Rerun.) Lifting an idea from Dickens, the Mod Squad uncovers a burglary ring which force destitute young people to seal in "Suffer Little Children." Kaz Garas is tonight's guest as a minister determined to find the killer of his brother, a psychologist who ran a clinic for troubled children.

IT WAS A VERY GOOD YEAR, 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. This week, the year to reminisce about is 1953 . . . the Korean War ended in armistice, Queen Elizabeth was crowned, Native Dancer was heaten in the Kentucky Derby by a dark horse, Dark Star. Lucille Ball was laughably pregnant on the I Love Lucy Show, and the 3-D movie House of Wax was the ultimate in horror. Edmund Hillary is the guest tonight, with slides of his conquest of Mount Everest.

THE MOVIE CLASSICS OF DAVID O. SELZNIK, 8:30 p.m., Channel 4. "The Spiral Staircase" (1945), shown for the first time on TV, is a classic. Starring Dorothy McGuire, George Brent, Ethel Barrymore, Rhonda Fleming, Kent Smith and Elsa Lanchester. In the story, a psychopathic killer terrorizes a New England town. His victims are all handicapped and Miss McGuire, as a mute servant girl trapped in an old mansion is next on the list.

ALL IN THE FAMILY, 9:30 p.m., Channels 7 and 12. (Rerun.) Archie takes a back seat as Gloria discovers women's lib tonight and moves out of the Bunker household after an argument with Mike. From now on she wants Mike to treat her as a complete equal. Bob Reiner and Sally Struthers are featured as the battling couple.

SPECIAL: CBS REPORTS, 10 p.m., Channels 7 and 12, "POWs — Pawns of War" is the second of a two-part report on the status of Americans imprisoned in North Vietnam and their prospects for freedom. Also examined is the treatment of North NBO TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES, a p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun.) "Secret Ceremony." This 1968 film has been edited for television, stars Elizabeth Taylor, Robert Mitchum and Mia Farrow, and could make it any afternoon on the soapers, Miss Farrow plays a mentally retarded rich girl who meets Miss Taylor, a former model, and believes Liz is her dead mother. She takes Liz into her home and they get along fine until Mia's father shows up. Mitchum plays the father.

MARCUS WELBY, M.D. 10 p.m., Channel 4: (Rerun.) "Cynthia." The two good doctors run into legal troubles tonight after they diagnose a woman's backache as psychosomatic and prescribe exercise. The woman, played by guest star Diana Hyland, collapses and becomes paralysed. She sues them for

Small Pool... Practical Approach

Water in the garden too often remains only an attractive idea in the gardener's mind. Far better is it to install the tiniest of pools as a beginning just to find out the possibilities. Some of us gardeners are so practical in our approach to gardens that we must have a definite need for an innovation before seriously considering it.

The advantages of a pool are entirely aesthetic so starting with a washtub size is a really practical approach. Satisfaction can lead to bigger things later.

If a waterlily is to be planted, choose a spot where the sunlight will lie for eight to ten hours, daily in summer. Have a permanent seat nearby, backed with group of attractive shrubs or one small tree to create a frame for the picture.

A wide shallow pool with half submerged rock and no waterlily will attract birds for bathing and drinking.

This sharing with other living creatures doubles the enjoyment, and we need the return of the birds today more than anything in our gardens.

American research shows Stonehenge to be several centuries older than scientists used to believe. This means, he concludes, that Stonehenge was built independently of Mediterranean culture.

The separate interviews with Renfrew, and Hawkes point up the mystery of the origin of Stonehenge.

This prehistoric monument is a circle of monoliths on the Sallsbury plain, 60 miles southwest of London. It contains 72 glant stones, weighing up to 30 tons each, formed in a circle 76 feet cross. The unknown builders dragged the huge stones for miles across the plain.

Until the early 1900s, Stone-henge was generally con-nected with the Druids — a group of priestly magicians known for their sacrificial observatory.

The most accepted theory of origin came in 1953, when Edinburgh's Piggott and two associates accidentally stumbled upon carvings in the stone. They took these to be of the ancient Greek Mycenean culture, which flourished around 1500 BC. Other scholars thought they detected in fluences of the Minoan culture of Crete.

Renfrew challenges the Mediterranean theories on the basis of new carbon-dating techniques.

"We've been underestimating the oreativity of those Western European barbarians," he says. "Our whole thinking about the prehistoric trans has to be changed. We must now look for explanations in local terms—not in terms of this great flow of culture from the Mediterranean."

Senate Okays Three Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate gave final approval Monday to a bill to Increase the federal minimum wage to $1.75 an hour from $1.65, effective July 1.

Also approved were bills to establish the Canada Development Corp. and to revamp the law on pilotage.

The three measures already have been approved by the Commons and will likely get royal assent Wednesday when Parliament is to rise for a two-month summer recess.

The minimum-wage bill amends the Canada Labor Standards Code and will affect more than 500,000 persons who work in businesses such as banks that operate in more than one province and thus come under federal jurisdiction.

The amendment was rejected by the House of Representatives donday and the bill was sent to

CAN KEEP GOING

Monday and the bill was sent to a joint congressional conference committee, which has to reconcile differences between the legislation as it emerged from the House and from the Senate.

The amendment, which was promoted by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, took the form of a polley declaration calling for complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam over a nine-month period if Hanoi releases its U.S. captives.

If as appears probable, the conference committee cannot produce a compromise acceptable to Congress by Wednesday night, the present draft law will expire without the planned renewing legislation to give the president draft authority for two more years.

CAN KEEP GOING

Defence department chiefs and other administration officials said there is enough man power currently available to keep the military establishment up to its requirements for a month or two. Neither they nor their congressional supporters fear that the draft authority will go too long without being renewed.

But the vote in the House Monday—218 to 176—against the Mansfield amendment was a record high for anti-war sentiment in the generally hawkish lower chamber.

Doves in both houses of Congress view the amendment's success so far as a signal

While a restatement of national interest was considered valuable, the committee expressed concern lest "a too-intensive preoccupation" with domestic interests" blind Canada to opportunities for action abroad.

In the white paper, foreign policy was viewed as a vehicle for pursuing Canada's national interests on an international plane.

The committee said it was convinced there are differences between Canada's internal and international

There was no reason why Canada can't promote its domestic policies and defend its national interest, "while at the same time recognizing more emphatically the different environment, the different environment, the different environment and therefore the different response in the global village.'

RECEIVES YOUTH GRANT

$10,000 Ceiling Scrapped

OTTAWA (CP) -The government has revised its proposed overhaul of the family allowance system by announcing plans to pump an additional $150 million into the project and to scrap the proposed $10,000 cutoff, announced in the Commons that the government's original proposals, issued through a white paper last December, have been overhauled follow-

million.

The new program will cover youths aged 16 and 17, thus replacing the present youth allowances program.

While the original white paper proposals called for a single benefit rate of $16 a month, Mr. Munro said it now is proposed to have two rates "with perhaps a 15 per cent monthly benefits."

He said this could mean that benefits for children up to the age of 12 could be "slightly below" $16 and for those from 12 to 17, the benefit would be slightly above $16

INTRODUCES LEVEL

The government does not plan to proceed with plans to plan to proceed with plans to out off family allowances when incomes reach $10,000, Instead, said the minister, there will be a "threshold level" below which full bene-fits will be paid and above which benefits will be re-duced.

they set out on a perilous journey.

Banded in close-packed schools, they winnow downwith the current to reaches where voracious jaws are waiting. The culthroat trout of the Gorge harry the migrants with lightning-swift raids.

I sketched this picture for Win in considerable detail as we drove through the gently-failing rain. "Did you bring any fishing tackle?" she asked, I told her no, that we would just observe the fascinating spec-tacks.

It was now raining briskly. A couple of fishermen leaned on the bridge rail, trailing files in the lazy interplay of tidal currents. There was no sign of the sticklebacks, or treat.

I began to hedge. Maybe we should have picked a brisker tide, Maybe . . .

But, thanks to determined efforts by the Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia, the oldest school west of the Great Lakes stands restored on a well-tended green expanse above the water, and as Win gointed out, it was high time we had a look at it.

Completed when Vano completes when variouver laiand was still a colony, the school opened its doors to the children of Craigflower Farm workers in the spring of 1855. Step inside and you are at once plunged into a past which is almost disturbingly teartible.

The desks, most of them scarred originals with jack-knife carved initials and seats worn slick by generations of use, stand on the plank floor in two orderly rows.

Some of the slates are cracked, but a slate pencil applied at a well calculated angle produced a squeal of the sort that fetched stern glances from teachers long departed.

"If you look closely at the slates," Mrs. Clark told us, "you'll notice that some were decorated around the edges. Those belonged to the girls."

Some of the boys also left their mark, as witness a find the Clarks made while clean-ing windows a while ago. In the cloakroom, our guide pointed out one of the little squares of window glass that came around Cape Horn by-sailing ship from England.

A name had been scratched on the pane. 'Pat Fagan', the spidery letters ran. The date that tollowed looked like '1874', but that seven may have been meant for a nine.

The Clarks would like to know more about this student of 77 years ago, who lightened the tedium of a detention with a bit of mischief. There's much more that they also hope to learn about a school

Foreign Policy Paper Attacked

OTTAWA (CP) - The Commons external affairs committee sharply attacked today the government's foreign policy as enunciated in a white paper published one year ago.

In a report tabled in the Commons by vice-chairman Douglas Lachance (L.—Montreal Lafontaine), the Liberaldom in a ted oom mittee questioned the link between domestic and foreign policies drawn in the white paper.

While a restatement of national interest was considered valuable, the committee expressed concern lest "n too-intensive preoccupation with domestic interests" blind Canada to opportunities for action abroad.

$10,000 Ceiling Scrapped

OTTAWA (CP) -The government has revised its proposed overhaul of the family allowance system by announcing plans to pump an additional $150 million into the project and to scrap the proposed $10,000 cutoff.

Health Minister John Munro announced in the Commons that the government's original proposals, issued through a white paper last December, have been overhauled following lengthy negotiations with the provinces and after receiving submissions from other interested groups.
